Blue Hummingbird
Woman Heart
Medicine Shop

Mandy Okonick

All the necessary adjectives needed to describe our eastside neighbor Tara Perron (English) Tanagdaj To Win (Dakota) exist in the attributes of a hummingbird. Her creative output is an optical illusion tempered with grace and a joyful spirit. In addition to opening her new gift shop featuring hand-crafted natural medicines, Tara is looking forward to the release of several more books. For someone who never stops creating she doesn’t seem rushed or even stressed out and filled with gratitude for doing what she loves, Tara is the perfect example of what could happen if each of us were brave enough to follow our passion. Blue Hummingbird Woman Heart Medicine gift shop is located at 30 7th St. #285 in Saint Paul MN 55101, in the US Bank building. The shop is open Monday-Thursday from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Do you make all your traditional medicines yourself? What plants do you like to use?
I do. I create cottonwood buds and bear-root which is a root medicine that’s very good for inflammation — it’s anti-viral, so I love creating with that. Rosehips, rose petals, and I love roses. Everything about the rose, I’m fascinated by that plant. Also, stinging nettle, and burdock, root which is so good for your skin. I love everything about the birch tree.

What are some of the medicinal elixirs we can find in your shop?
Elderberry syrup, Fire Cider, which is like a Minnesota staple we use that all the time. I also have a Hanwi oxyxme. Hanwi means moon. [In Dakota] It’s an anti-inflammatory, anti-viral, really good for the lungs, and it can help with allergies. It can help stabilize your blood pressure, lower cholesterol, and balance your blood sugar.

Can you talk about your harvesting process?
I follow traditional protocol which is praying over all my medicines and offering my tobacco. This is one thing I need to teach people, that there’s only so much medicine. We only have the spring to collect it and it has to dry, so there is a process. Once the medicines are gone for the season then that’s the end. Medicine has a spirit, so we can’t just depleted it. One of my grandmothers tells the story about a woman that got greedy and dug for a whole bunch of medicine, and she dug so deep that a snake came up and bit her.

Do you have any favorite medicines to make?
My mato salve. It’s a warm salve for sore muscles. That’s a family favorite. When we brought this to the public it became a public favorite. Everyone comes back for that. I have a huha salve, huha means limbs in Dakota and it is an anti-inflammatory for nerves and joints. And then maka salve; maka means earth in Dakota.

How long have you been on the East Side?
I’ve been on the East Side my whole life. I went to Monroe school on West 7th Street for grade school and then I went to Arlington High School when it just opened up. I’ve lived off of Maryland on Burr Street. I’ve lived on Lawson Street, and now I live on Maria Avenue.

Why do you stay on the East Side?
What inspires you?
I grew up praying on Wakan Tiapi with my dad. I go to the mounds with my boys to drum. I participate in water ceremony with his wife and daughter, gave me a tour of the school. It is very impressive and much bigger on the inside than it appears on the outside. There are three large fully equipped rooms inside with about six chairs each, plus offices, classrooms, and a waiting room. They are all very clean and bright. The staff and students are friendly and full of energy. There are instructors who are available to answer any questions the student barbers may have and to make sure they do a good job. I was very pleased with my haircut.

A standard haircut is $9.00. There is also a senior haircut ($6.00), haircuts for people of service, firefighters and police, ($5.00, I.D. Required) and a variety of specialty haircuts with prices from $11 to $14. You can also get razor head and facial shaves, beard trims, facials and other services. The barbershop is open Tuesdays—Friday 10 a.m. to 4:20 p.m. and Saturdays 9:30 a.m. to 3:50 p.m. No appointments are necessary. The last haircuts of the day are taken 40 minutes prior to closing.

Greg Cosimini

A barber school serves two purposes. First, of course, it is a school that trains people to become barbers. Second, and probably of most interest to those who aren’t planning to become barbers, it is a barbershop that provides high-quality but low-cost haircuts for customers.

Moler Barber School of St. Paul is one of these barber schools. It is located on the East Side of Saint Paul at 858 Arcade St. at the south end of the strip mall off Neid Lane, between AutoZone Auto Parts and DaVita Kidney Care. It had been in Plaza del Sol on Payne Ave. until moving here in January 2022.

The original Moler Barber School was established in 1893. It was located in Minneapolis for many years and was one of several barber schools in the Twin Cities. Moler Barber Shop of Saint Paul is an independently owned franchise school and not affiliated with any other Moler institutions.

Its owner, Alex, who runs the school with his wife and daughter, gave me a tour of the school. It is very impressive and much bigger on the inside than it appears on the outside. There are three large fully equipped rooms inside with about six chairs each, plus offices, classrooms, and a waiting room. They are all very clean and bright. Winter Fun in Ramsey County

Ramsey County Parks & Recreation offers a wide variety of outdoor activities for all ages all year round! Head to Ramsey County Parks & Recreation for a chance to see the fun of winter – go sledding, skiing, snowshoeing, and more. Here’s what you can expect to find during the upcoming season.

General Information: Ramsey County Parks & Recreation is made up of nine county parks, six regional parks, and five regional trail corridors. Find a park or explore our trails. All parks offer plowed parking or easy street parking, and as always, entry and parking is free. Portable toilets are available at select locations.

Trails: Take to the trails by foot, snowshoe or fat bike. All regional trails will be plowed and accessible throughout the winter, and each park has opportunities to use plowed, mulched, or natural snow trails. Explore the walking trails that offer a spectacular look at Ramsey County’s diverse landscape.

Sledging & tubing: Fly down the snowy slopes of our designated sledding areas at Battle Creek Regional Park, Rice Creek Regional Trail, Tamarack Nature Center, and Vadnais-Snail Lakes Regional Park.

Cross-country skiing: We’ve partnered with the city of Saint Paul to offer more ski runs this winter. Enjoy 32 miles of marked and groomed natural snow ski trails at Battle Creek Regional Park, Rice Creek Regional Trail, Vadnais-Snail Lakes Regional Park, Tamarack Nature Center, Como Park Golf Course, Highland 9 Golf Course, and Phalen Golf Course. Battle Creek Regional Park West North Trail will be open 7-8 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Nov. 1 through April 30. The park will also be open on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Fridays from 1-5 p.m. Tamarack Nature Center, Como Park Golf Course, and Highland 9 Golf Course are open for skiing on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The True Spirit of Wakan Tipi

Wakan Tipi Cave seems to have become a bathhouse for homeless people. I’ve been visiting the Wakan Tipi Cave since 1988, having published articles and booklets on it in the past. I remember this place before it became the Bruce Vento Nature Sanctuary, back when it was a rail-yard. I’ve collected periodic photos of the cave entrance to document physical changes over the years, and have an extensive album of such photos. I went down to the sacred cave on October 31st, only to find heaps of discarded clothing around the entrance, including bras and underwear. It appears that the cave entrance has been holl owed out by homeless people for use as a secluded bathing spot, with a nice soft “seat” on the sandbank just inside the entrance. Nor is it something new. Several summers ago, during one of my semi-annual visits, I was the involuntary witness of a nude male bathing in the pond outside the cave, splashing happily in the sunlight, oblivious to a passerby.

There’s so much trash in Bruce Vento Nature Sanctuary, especially around the cave. Spray painted graffiti is steadily creeping over the bluff face between North Star Cave and Wakan Tipi Cave, where none had been before (as of my last visit in April of this year). Given the nature of this sandstone, it should be comparatively easy to remove, yet there it remains, attracting more of the same. The rusted steel doors outside the cave have become minutely stenciled over.

From now on, whenever I go down there, I plan to bring a trash bag to pick up all the clothing and garbage at this sac-cred site. I find it ironic that ground has been broken for a multimillion-dollar Wakan Tipi Center, yet little regard is shown for the namesake Wakan Tipi. It’s a strange perversion of priorities.

View From My Porch

Rats! Part One

Sage Hollen

“Rat! I’m nothing but a rat! I hate this neighborhood; nothing good in it. It hates me! I’m a rat.” As I neared the young woman, likely in her 30s, she agitatedly rearranged her few bags and rolled her yoga mat while confirming to herself how she felt she was being treated. Second before, my early morning friend and I, enjoying coffee on the porch, could hear her yelling, “I’m NOT going to have sex again!” As a car slowly passed, she yelled at the driver, “F--- you! Stop looking at me!” I’m guessing that the driver was likely checking out the woman’s stability; they drove away as I began crossing the street toward the woman.

“Carol, Carol, is that you?” I asked, offering some morning pleasantries. “Could I help?” I’ve found that calling out a possible name and an offer of help was often a helpful introduction in calming a stranger and introducing myself to a situation. “No, I’m NOT Carol. No, I don’t want any help.”

Many people trek between East 7th and 3rd Streets for the two bus lines. Some carry assorted bags, push shopping carts, or bag-laden baby strollers. I remember about 15 years ago, someone carrying a parrot on her shoulder. Some carry on-sided conversations as this woman was doing. Sometimes it’s difficult to distinguish whether the person is speaking through ear buds or with someone occupying headspace. I sometimes do the headspace thing, but I try to not say it aloud. Her comment, “I’m nothing but a rat” created an image of a human who has been treated not only as invisible, but frequently treated as garbage as well as with little respect to the rest of society. Words recently spoken by a friend came to mind — “Have you ever wondered why the (specifically referencing Dayton’s Bluff and Payne-Phalen areas) are all in one laboratory maze...understands through experience, the futility of the rats. Who is this nameless, quiet observer? The rat watchers, the mayor, city council, public works, safety, DSI, parks and rec, traffic and street design, school administrators and boards, anyone receiving salary or stipend for their positions — are interested, not in how or how well patterns of traffic move, whether it’s humans or vehicles; neighborhood street safety issues or petty and minor crimes that disrupt residents’ desired quality of life; rat watchers are not truly interested in whether certain decisions or fantasied improvements actually improve the quality of lives. It is their role to simply observe.

How long has this woman been treated like vermin, seen as garbage by the nameless people around her. This woman remains nameless to me. She wouldn’t face me, not with me. It was not my right to expect any return of information and she seemed anxious to leave this phase of the rat lab labyrinth. [Case Note: When safety issues are not addressed, respect for law and civility disappear and inject those in an extremely wide vicinity, spreading like smallpox.] Case Note: When a repeat offender who has harmed other persons or property and has been let free (without due discipline, whether 13 years old or 30 years old, observe how other societal members respond in expectation of the same.)

Updated Boosters Now Available at Ramsey County Clinics

Ramsey County Public Health is now offering updated (bivalent) booster shots to people ages 12 and older. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends the updated COVID-19 boosters for everyone ages 12 and older who completed their primary series or received a booster dose at least 2 months ago. Stay up to date with your COVID-19 vaccines and get an updated booster soon.

Why do I need an updated booster? Boosters are an important part of protecting yourself from getting seriously ill or dying from COVID-19. Updated boosters can help increase protection since your last shot and provide more protection against newer variants. Booster shots are common for many vaccines, like the flu shot or Tdap (tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis). The vaccine is free; no medical insurance or ID needed. These are our current vaccination sites:

- Consulate of Mexico: 797 East 7th St. Saint Paul, MN 55106. Wednesday clinics (2:30 - 6 p.m.) on-site registration.
- Saint Paul Public School — 360 Colborne: Thursday clinics (3 - 6 p.m.) appointment only.

In addition to these clinics, the COVID-19 vaccine is available at several sites operated by the state of Minnesota, health care clinics and pharmacies. Check our vaccine page for the latest information and links. Additional clinic details: People age 5-11 years should get an original booster shot (monovalent) at least 5 months after their primary series of vaccine. Even if you didn’t get your first dose with Ramsey County, you can still get your second dose or booster with us.

Visit ramseycounty.us/COVIDVaccine for more details. Call Public Health’s vaccine phone line at 651-266-1190 (Monday – Friday: 8 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.) with questions.

Bird, Bee, and Beaver Neighbors

Kathy Sides

Saint Paul is a river town, so it’s fun to explore our parks and see the plants and animals that live and migrate through here. With binoculars and a camera, I learn about what I see from books and the internet. This fall I learned about Rusty Blackbirds, queen Common Eastern bumble bees, and North American beavers.

In October I saw Rusty Blackbird in mud and leaves at the edge of a shallow pond in Swede Hollow. The Rusty Blackbird was looking for food under the leaves. It was on its way to Canada, where they raise their young, and lay back to the south and United States. I learned about Rusty Blackbirds at allaboutbirds.org. We saw this bird while getting ready for a Saint Paul Audubon “Bird Up” walk. Everyone is welcome to come on Saint Paul Audubon bird walks: saintpaulaudubon.org. If you would like to help count birds all or half day for the annual Audubon Christmas Bird Count on December 17 on the East Side, contact me at ksesid@aol.com. Beginner or expert, walking plowed path or rugged paths, everyone is welcome to help in our East Side count circle — Hwy 94 to 36, Hwy 35E to White Bear Ave.

This summer I counted the different species of bumble bees I saw at the native plant restoration flowers along the west shore of Lake Phalen. I did a survey of them in 2020 for seven weeks as a volunteer for the University of Minnesota. Now I do it on my own each summer, and upload pictures and counts of the bumblebees to bumblebeewatch.org. Bumblebees live together in nests that a queen bumblebee makes in mouse holes or grass clumps. First workers then males and new queens are born. The workers pack pollen on their legs and bring it back to the nest to feed the new bumble bee. In late summer the new queen bees build up on pollen. Then they dig into soft soil for the winter. They come out next spring to find flowers for food and then a nest. After the seven weeks of surveys were over I wondered, how fast do bumblebee numbers go down in the fall? And what flowers do they get nectar and pollen from then? It has been fun to see new queen bumble bees feeding until early November at the last clumps of asters and goldenrod at Lake Phalen. Everyone can take an online class to learn about bumble bee identification and help survey them: apps.extension.umn.edu/environment/citizen-science/bee-atlas.

I knew American Beavers used to be widespread, their dams helped create North America’s landscape, and we almost hunted them to extinction for fur. On my weekly walk at Pig’s Eye Regional Park I look for their latest activity and learn more about them. In November we saw their dam, two trees they eat bark from, and a big channel they maintain. The beavers build walls of mud in the cattails, and add a few sticks to dam up overflowing water to make a channel. One of their lodges is at the end of the channel. The water is deep enough by winter to cover the lodge entrance and store branches to eat later. Beavers can help us reduce flooding and get rid of pollution: fws.gov/media/beaver-restoration-guide.

Bumblebees are our friends, and we can take an online class to learn about them: allaboutbirds.org. Learn about what I see from books and the internet.

Some December Historical Events in St. Paul

Steve Trimble

December 3, 1892: The Church of Saint Casimir celebrated its first mass on this day. Three years earlier, the members purchased three lots at Jessamine Avenue East at the corner of Forest. The first building that was built housed a school on the first floor that opened in September 1893 with 50 enrolled students. The upper floor of the building served as the church hall.

The makeup of the church at its inception was Polish but other nationalities later joined the congregation.

The Church was staffed by diocesan priests until 1916. The missionary Franciscan Sisters taught at the school from 1908 until 1987. Over the years the parish grew and expanded to meet heavy demands from the community. A new school was built in 1923, allowing up to 600 students to receive education.

December 9, 1886 and December 9, 1968: The University Avenue streetcar line between St. Paul to Minneapolis was launched on this day. “This car and those to follow it” a speaker said “will prove more potent factors in the future unity... than any amount of exhortation on the subject.” The cars were full because not enough new ones were available yet. The first trips took 45 minutes, but it was hoped they would become faster. On Dec. 9, 1968, about three quarters of the century later to a day, the new 11-mile segment of Interstate 94 that linked the downtowns of the Twin Cities opened. The opening of I-94 displaced the historic Rondo neighborhood that had been the largest African American neighborhood in the city.

December 11, 1956: Swede Hollow’s remaining homes were declared uninhabitable by the St. Paul City Health Department and burned them down on this day. The area had come home to various immigrant groups, beginning with the Swedes in the 1860’s. A 1886 newspaper headline described the area as “A Foreign Settlement in the Midst of St. Paul,” with “a quaint appearance” in the midst of a “still more quaint picturesque surrounding.” The Hollow’s history is one of waves of immigrants making their homes on the banks of Phalen Creek. Swedes began settling there in the 1870s and around 1920 many Italians moved in, followed by Mexican Americans in the 1940s. It was a diverse community that, at its height, had an estimated 1,000 residents. The last 14 families were moved out when the homes were destroyed by the Fire Department. In 1973 Swede Hollow was designated a Saint Paul Park. The former immigrant community has been revitalized and is once again a local center of interest. Visitors can now walk or bike through the park on Tuesdays and Saturdays. There are a few reminders of the old days seen in sporadic remains of stone foundations and flowers that were planted in immigrant yards.
East Side Eating
Trimble’s Taste Trek

Forum contributor Steve Trimble has set out to eat at every locally-owned, sit-down restaurant on the East Side. He hopes to get the word out to Dayton’s Bluff about the eating options here on our side of town. There are more restaurants than there is room for in the monthly paper, but at least 60 may now be found online at daytonsbluffdistrictforum.org. Click on “East Side Eating” at the top of the home page. Steve Trimble can be reached at daytonsbluffdistrictforum@gmail.com.

Normally, I would have been writing on another restaurant. Now for the first time, I can’t find very many new openings. I checked out a food group on White Bear Avenue but it turned out to be a whole sale spot and not a sit down one. I have been checking out the progress of a new group that was moving into the former Porky’s at 1080 Payne Avenue, on Facebook. It will be known as Chances Tavern. A couple of weeks ago they had a grand opening. I thought my luck had been restored. However, I visited and while they were indeed open, they did not have all the equipment and they felt their sit-down dining would probably begin early next year.

So I decided to look through my cookbook collection and find recipes from Dayton’s Bluff and other East Side organizations. Here they are. Three of them reflect some of the ethnic groups in our community. Sacred Heart was initially opened for German residents. St. Ambrose was established for local Italians and the offering from residents. St. Ambrose was established for German groups in our community. Sacred Heart was initially opened for German groups in our community.

German Potato Salad

Salt and pepper to taste. Serves 8 amply.

Czarmina (Duck Soup)

Ingredients:
- ½ lb. duck
- 1 C. raisins
- 6 quarts of water
- 2 Tbsp salt
- 1 small onion cut fine.
- Dash of pepper
- 1 C. prunes
- 3-5 whole allspice

Directions:
Use large kettle. Cut meat in serving pieces. Cook until meat is tender. Then mix ⅓ duck blood with 4 T vinegar, ⅓ c flour, ⅓ c sugar. Add enough water to make a smooth thinning. Pour thinning into soup while boiling. Cook 10 to 15 minutes. Can use lean pork ribs, chicken, or pork chops. Put vinegar into glass or crockery bowl (not metal) and into this catch the blood when killing the duck or goose and stir to avoid coagulation. Fresh pig’s blood may also be used.

David F. Schwietz, Schwietz Cookbook, St. Paul, MN, 1994, p.15

In a SEPARATE large bowl, cream the shortening and sugar. Gradually blend in the egg, molasses and vinegar to blend. After these ingredients are well-blended, stir in the dry ingredients mixture. Chill at least 3 hours. The dough will appear crumbly, but if you divide the mixture into 10-12, each will make just a few gingerbread cookies.

Shapes and it rolls well. Place cookies one inch apart on a greased cookie sheet (or on parchment paper lined cookie sheet). The more uniform the thickness of the cookies, the more likely all will get done and none will burn. If desired, sprinkle with sugar or decorate. Bake in 375 F oven for 5-8 minutes. Makes about 8 dozen.

Dear Reader,

The Dayton’s Bluff District Forum has been a volunteer-run newspaper since the 1980s and has always operated on a minimal budget. Each issue costs around $1,000 to produce per month. We have found a new printer and have adjusted the cost to print each month.

For the past three years we have been soliciting donations through our Friends of the Forum program. Thanks to the donations from readers like you, we have been able to keep the paper up and running. If you value this community source of information, please consider filling out the form below. Any amount is appreciated; you may also make memorial donations, or include the Forum in your legacy planning. If you have been our Friend in the past, please consider making a donation in 2022.
